

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS

A. OVERVIEW

The following principles support and guide our leadership in establishing the strategic direction of Welltower Inc. (“Welltower”). Our directors, officers and employees are expected to conduct their business in accordance with these ethical principles. We must do more than be compliant with laws, regulations and policies: we must work according to our ethical principles and endeavor to conduct ourselves in a manner beyond reproach. Any individual who ignores or violates any of Welltower’s ethical standards, or who penalizes a subordinate for trying to follow these ethical standards, will be subject to corrective action, including possible dismissal. However, it is not the threat of discipline that should govern your actions. Our reputation is based on the personal integrity of each of our directors, officers and employees and those with whom we do business. A dedicated commitment to ethical behavior is the right thing to do, is good business, and is the surest way for us to remain a business leader, an employer of choice and a good corporate citizen.

Additional policies and procedures that supplement those contained in this Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the “Code”) can be found in the Welltower Employee Handbook (“Welltower Handbook”), which is available at <https://employee.welltower.com/article-categories/employee-handbook/>.

Directors, officers and employees are responsible for adhering to the standards in the Code, for raising questions if they are in doubt about the best course of action and for reporting possible misconduct promptly after it comes to their attention. If an employee is in doubt about the propriety of any action, the employee should discuss it with his or her direct supervisor, Senior Vice President - Human Capital or the Senior Vice President - General Counsel and Corporate Secretary. Directors and officers should contact the Senior Vice President - General Counsel and Corporate Secretary or the Audit Committee Chairman.

B. ETHICS

Welltower, and each of its directors, officers and employees, wherever they may be located, must conduct their affairs with uncompromising honesty and integrity. Business ethics are no different than personal ethics. The same high standard applies to both. As a Welltower director, officer or employee, you are required to adhere to the highest ethical standard.

Welltower employees, officers and directors are expected to be honest, ethical and fair and should endeavor to deal fairly in dealing with the listed company's customers, suppliers, competitors and employees. None should take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts, or any other unfair-dealing practice. Doing the right thing means doing it right every time.

You must also respect the rights of your Welltower colleagues and third parties. Your actions must be free from discrimination, libel, slander or harassment. Each person must be treated with dignity and respect and accorded equal opportunity, regardless of age, race, sex, sexual preference, gender identity, color, creed, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran’s status, handicap or disability.

Misconduct cannot be excused because it was directed or requested by another. In this regard, you are expected to alert Management whenever an illegal, dishonest or unethical act is discovered or suspected. You will not be penalized for reporting your discoveries or suspicions.

Welltower conducts its affairs consistent with the applicable laws and regulations of the United States and the states in which it does business. As a Welltower director, officer or employee, you are expected to comply with all such applicable laws and regulations.

The following statements concern frequently raised ethical concerns. A violation of the standards contained in this Code will result in corrective action, including possible dismissal.

C. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

You should avoid any personal activity, investment or association that could interfere or appear to interfere with good judgment concerning Welltower's best interests. You may not exploit your position or relationship with Welltower for personal gain. You should avoid even the appearance of such a conflict. Therefore, if you are related in any way to a vendor, customer or other provider, you should not be the one to decide whether Welltower will do business with that person. Some examples of situations that could create a conflict of interest include if you:

- Cause Welltower to engage in business transactions with you or your relatives or friends or entities controlled by you or them.
- Use nonpublic Welltower, customer or vendor information for personal gain by you, relatives or friends (including securities transactions based on such information).
- Have more than a modest financial interest in Welltower's vendors, customers or competitors.
- Receive any loan, or guarantee of obligations, from Welltower or a third party as a result of your position at Welltower.
- Compete, or prepare to compete, with Welltower while still employed by Welltower.

There are other situations in which a conflict of interest may arise. If you have concerns about any situation, follow the steps outlined in the section on "Reporting Possible Violations."

To ensure that material transactions and relationships involving a potential conflict of interest for any officer or director are in the best interests of Welltower, the Nominating Corporate/Governance Committee must approve in advance all transactions and relationships in which an officer or a director, or any member of any such person's family, may have a personal interest or other potential conflict of interest. No director, officer or employee may, on behalf of Welltower, authorize or approve any transaction or relationship, or enter into any agreement, in which any director, officer or any member of his or her immediate family, may have a personal interest without Board approval.

D. CORPORATE OPPORTUNITIES

You owe a duty to Welltower to advance its legitimate interests when the opportunity to do so arises. Directors, officers and employees are prohibited from taking personal advantage (whether directly or through other businesses in which they have an interest) of opportunities that properly belong to Welltower, such as those discovered by the use of Welltower property, information or status.

E. GIFTS, BRIBES AND KICKBACKS

Gifts may be given and received only in accordance with Welltower's Anti-Corruption Policy. In no event should you put Welltower or yourself in a position that would be embarrassing if the gift were made public.

Dealing with government employees is often different than dealing with private persons. Many governmental bodies strictly prohibit the receipt of any gratuities by their employees, including meals and entertainment. You must be aware of and strictly follow these prohibitions.

Any Welltower director, officer, or employee who pays or receives bribes or kickbacks will be immediately terminated and reported, as warranted, to the appropriate authorities. A kickback or bribe includes any item intended to improperly obtain favorable treatment.

F. IMPROPER USE OR THEFT OF WELLTOWER PROPERTY

Every director, officer and employee must safeguard Welltower property from loss or theft, and may not take such property for personal use. Welltower property includes physical resources and property, as well as its proprietary and confidential information, software, computers, office equipment and supplies. You must appropriately secure all Welltower property within your control to prevent its unauthorized use.

Our offices, equipment, supplies and other resources may not be used for activities that are not related to your employment with Welltower, except for any activities that have been approved in writing in advance by Management, or for personal use that is minor in amount and reasonable.

Use of Welltower's electronic communications systems must conform to Welltower's corporate philosophy and policies as stated in the Welltower Handbook. In addition, you should not use Welltower's computer systems to access or post material that is pornographic, obscene, sexually-related, profane or otherwise offensive or that is intimidating or hostile or violates Welltower policies or any laws or regulations. Individuals may make limited non-business use of Welltower's electronic communications systems, provided that such use is occasional, does not interfere with the individual's professional responsibilities, does not diminish productivity and does not violate this policy or the policies set forth in the Welltower Handbook.

G. MAINTAINING ACCURATE AND COMPLETE COMPANY RECORDS

In order to provide an adequate system of internal accounting and controls, Welltower is required under U.S. federal securities laws and generally accepted accounting principles to keep books, records and accounts that accurately reflect all transactions. Also, Welltower is required to provide full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure in reports and documents that it files with, or furnishes to, the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and in all of its other public communications. Welltower expects all personnel to ensure that those portions of its books, records and accounts for which they have responsibility are valid, complete, accurate and supported by appropriate documentation in verifiable form. Similarly, Welltower expects all personnel to ensure that all reports and documents filed with the SEC and all other public communications for which they are responsible, provide full, fair, accurate and understandable disclosure and that the same are filed on a timely basis.

All officers and employees who exercise supervisory duties over Welltower assets or records are expected to establish and implement appropriate internal controls over all areas of their responsibility. This will help ensure the safeguarding of Welltower's assets and the accuracy of its financial records and reports. Welltower has adopted various types of internal controls and procedures as required to meet internal needs and applicable laws and regulations. We expect all personnel to follow these controls and procedures to assure the complete and accurate recording of all transactions.

Any accounting entries or adjustments that materially depart from generally accepted accounting principles must be approved by the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors and reported to the independent auditors. No one may interfere with or seek to improperly influence (directly or indirectly) the review or auditing of our financial records by Welltower's independent auditors.

If a director, officer or employee becomes aware of any questionable transaction or accounting practice concerning Welltower or its assets, or undisclosed material off-balance-sheet transactions, arrangements and obligations, contingent or otherwise, and other Welltower relationships with unconsolidated entities or other persons, any of which may have either a current or future material effect on our financial condition or results of operations, Welltower expects the matter to be reported immediately by calling the Welltower Corporate Governance Hotline at 844-775-6642. Reports may be submitted through the Corporate Governance Hotline on a confidential, anonymous basis.

Mistakes should never be covered up. They should be immediately and fully disclosed and corrected. Falsification of any Welltower, client or third party record is prohibited.

H. PROTECTION OF WELLTOWER, CUSTOMER AND VENDOR INFORMATION

No one may use for his or her personal benefit, or reveal to others for their personal benefit, confidential or proprietary information of Welltower, its customers and vendors. Additionally, all personnel must take appropriate steps, including securing documents, limiting access to computers and electronic media, and proper disposal methods, to prevent unauthorized access to such information. Proprietary and/or confidential information, among other things, includes: the database, investment criteria, business methods, pricing and marketing data, strategy, computer code, forms, and information about, or received from, Welltower's current, former and prospective customers, vendors and employees.

I. COMPETITIVE INFORMATION, DEFAMATION AND MISREPRESENTATION

No one may accept, use or disclose to others the confidential information of Welltower's competitors. When obtaining competitive information, Welltower personnel must not violate our competitors' rights. Particular care must be taken when dealing with competitors' customers, former customers and ex-employees. Never ask for confidential or proprietary information. Never ask a person to violate a non-compete or a non-disclosure agreement. Aggressive sales and marketing should not include misstatements, innuendo or rumors about Welltower's competitors or their products or financial condition. Do not make unsupportable promises concerning Welltower.

J. USE OF WELLTOWER AND THIRD PARTY SOFTWARE

Welltower and third party software may be distributed and disclosed only to individuals authorized to use it, and to customers in accordance with the terms of a Welltower agreement. Welltower and third party software may not be copied without specific authorization and may only be used to perform assigned responsibilities.

K. FAIR COMPETITION AND ANTITRUST LAWS

Welltower must comply with all applicable fair competition and antitrust laws. These laws attempt to ensure that businesses compete fairly and honestly and prohibit conduct seeking to reduce or restrain competition. If you are uncertain whether a contemplated action raises unfair competition or antitrust issues, Welltower's legal counsel can assist you.

L. SECURITIES TRADING

It is illegal to buy or sell securities using material information not available to the public. Persons who give such undisclosed "inside" information to others may be as liable as the persons who trade securities while possessing such information. Securities laws may be violated if a director, officer or employee, or any of their relatives or friends trade in securities of Welltower, or any of its customers or vendors, while possessing "inside" information. Please refer to Welltower's Insider Trading Policy.

M. POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

No Welltower funds may be given directly to political candidates. Directors, officers and employees may, however, engage in political activity with their own resources on their own time.

N. ANTI-MONEY LAUNDERING

Welltower complies with applicable anti-money laundering legal requirements. Officers and employees should be alert to red flags suggesting that business associates or customers may be engaged in illegal activity or that funds paid to Welltower may have an illegal source.

O. RETENTION OF BUSINESS RECORDS

Welltower's business records must be maintained for the periods in accordance with Welltower's document retention policies. Records may be destroyed only at the expiration of the pertinent period. In no case may documents involved in a pending or threatened litigation or government inquiry or under subpoena or other information request, be discarded or destroyed, regardless of the periods specified in the applicable policy. In addition, no one should ever destroy, alter, or conceal, with an improper purpose, any record or otherwise impede any official proceeding, either personally, in conjunction with, or by attempting to influence, another person.

P. A HEALTHY AND SAFE WORKPLACE AND NO HARASSMENT

When Welltower protects the health and safety of its employees, the community, and the environment, Welltower demonstrates respect and contributes to a positive work environment. Without respect for health, safety, and the environment, Welltower would put its personnel, customers and the public at risk.

Welltower is committed to protecting the health and safety of its employees, the public, its customers, suppliers and visitors. Welltower's policy is to maintain a secure workplace where all employees are attentive to hazard prevention and the avoidance of accidents and injuries. Posted safety regulations, statistics, and warnings are guides to help everyone stay out of harm's way: observed accidents, injuries, or hazards should be immediately reported to any officer or the Risk Manager.

Welltower does not tolerate harassment or any retaliation against a person reporting harassment. Please refer to the section in the Welltower Handbook titled "Harassment."

Q. WAIVERS

The Code applies to all Welltower officers and employees and the members of its Board of Directors. There will be no waiver of any part of the Code for any officer or director except by a vote of the Board, which will ascertain whether a waiver is appropriate and ensure that the waiver is accompanied by appropriate controls designed to protect Welltower. Waivers of any part of the Code for any other employee may be granted by the Chief Executive Officer or the Chief Financial Officer.

If a waiver is granted for any officer or director, the waiver will be promptly disclosed as required by applicable law and securities exchange rules, thereby allowing Welltower's stockholders to evaluate the merits of the particular waiver.

R. REPORTING POSSIBLE VIOLATIONS

All Welltower directors, officers and employees are required to report, or cause to be reported, information known to them, and assist in any investigation by any regulatory or law enforcement agency, elected officials or others responsible for such matters, concerning the following:

T. NO RETALIATION AND CONFIDENTIALITY

Part of your job at Welltower is "to do the right thing." Welltower will not take any action against someone who reports or otherwise tries to stop suspected wrongdoing. More specifically, Welltower will not, and individual may, retaliate against anyone who provides, or causes to be provided, information, or who files, causes to be filed, testifies, participates in, or otherwise assists in a proceeding regarding any matter covered in the preceding section entitled "Reporting Possible Violations." The anonymity of a reporting person and the confidentiality of the information that is reported will be maintained if such person so requests; however, the identity of the person and the information reported may be disclosed to the extent necessary to conduct an effective investigation. Any person who believes that he or she has been subject to retaliation by Welltower, or any director, officer or employee, as a result of a report, testimony, assistance in a proceeding or otherwise, should report such retaliation to a member of the Board's Audit Committee.
